

REHABILITATION AND REVEGETATION

CAPABILITY BROCHURE

What We Do

At Enveng Group, we understand that successful rehabilitation is about more than just planting vegetation—it's about restoring ecological function, enhancing biodiversity, and creating resilient landscapes that thrive over time. Our tailored landscape and revegetation packages are designed to support both environmental and project outcomes, from early planning through to performance monitoring and long-term maintenance.

We coordinate the full scope of landscaping, revegetation, and rehabilitation works.

Our approach is grounded in ecological science and practical experience.

We focus on:

- Preserving and enhancing biodiversity through strategic planting and habitat integration.
- Rehabilitating riverbanks, wetlands, and drainage areas to restore natural hydrology and function.
- Utilising climate-appropriate, locally sourced native species to ensure long-term resilience.
- Enhancing safe fauna movement with the installation of fauna furniture and revegetation of crossing networks.
- Supporting urban landscaping and green infrastructure with tailored maintenance programs.

We also ensure that every project is supported by robust planning and quality control:

- Planting Establishment – Selection and replanting of native species based on local conditions and GIS-informed strategies.
- Monitoring & Quality Control – Regular assessments of plant survival, weed management, and compliance with project standards.
- Stakeholder Consultation – Engaging with Traditional Owners, landholders, and community groups to incorporate local knowledge and values into rehabilitation design.

Our goal is to deliver rehabilitation outcomes that are not only compliant but ecologically meaningful - supporting long-term sustainability, community value, and project success.
