

ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

CAPABILITY BROCHURE

With over five decades of industry expertise, Enveng Group delivers robust, ISO 14001-compliant Environmental Management Systems tailored to the needs of construction, mining, and oil & gas projects. Our practical approach is built on real-world experience and is designed specifically for your project or organisational requirements and a deep understanding of environmental compliance.

We understand that a well-designed EMS is more than a compliance tool—it's a strategic framework that helps organisations proactively manage environmental risks, improve performance, and demonstrate genuine environmental stewardship.

Our EMS Services Include

- Comprehensive review of existing systems to identify gaps and opportunities for improvement.
- Gap analysis against AS/NZS ISO 14001:2015 standards.
- Legal and regulatory reviews to ensure full compliance.
- Identification of environmental aspects and impacts relevant to your operations or projects.
- Development of environmental policies, procedures, and documentation.
- Support with EMS implementation.
- Training programs for HSE teams and staff on EMS awareness and environmental responsibilities.
- Design and implementation of monitoring programs.
- Ongoing auditing and performance reviews.
- Preparation of Environmental Management Plans (EMPs) for projects or organisations.

Why Implement an EMS with Enveng?

- Establish a formal system to support environmental compliance and demonstrate due diligence.
- Enables early identification of legislative requirements and approval pathways.
- Improves risk identification and management across all project phases.
- Delivers cost savings through resource efficiency, pollution reduction, and better waste management.
- Reinforces your organisation's environmental commitment and reputation.
- Enhances your corporate image and stakeholder confidence.

Whether you're starting from scratch or refining an existing system, Enveng Group provides the expertise, tools, and support to build an EMS that works—on paper and in practice.
